

Steve Allen, PT, OCS, COMT, FAAOMPT

Steve Allen is a graduate of the University of Southern California 1977 with a MS in Physical Therapy. Internships included attending the Kaiser Vallejo Rehab Program with Margaret Knott and Greg Johnson for intense instruction in Proprioceptive Neuromuscular Facilitation. Steve is the founder of Evergreen Physical Therapy in Spokane and currently serves as Clinic Director at Therapeutic Associates, Inc. in Liberty Lake, Washington. Steve received his Board Certification in Orthopedic Physical Therapy in 1986 and is a 1996 graduate of the North American Institute of Orthopaedic Manipulative Therapy (NAIOMT) and received his Fellowship in the American Academy of Orthopaedic Manipulative Therapy in 1998. Presently his duties outside the clinic include serving as adjunct faculty and clinical instructor, physical therapy program at Eastern Washington University and serves on the board of directors, Northwest Rehab Alliance. Special interests include his role as team physical therapist for the Freeman High School Ladies Basketball Program and the high school track team. Steve served for six years in the House of Delegates, American Physical Therapy Association, and co-chair of the Manipulation Task Force, Physical Therapy Association of Washington State.

Steve is available for part –time supervised clinical residency and mentorship

Publications:

Allen S, Vanderwilde R, Huijbregts PA. 17. Glenohumeral instability. In: Fernández-de-las-Peñas C, Cleland JC, Huijbregts PA, Eds. Neck and Arm Pain Syndromes: Evidence-informed Screening, Diagnosis and Management. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: Elsevier, to be published 2010.

Allen, S, "Pathoanatomic and Etiological Aspects of Cervical Spine Instability, Orthopaedic Physical Therapy Clinics of North America 10:3 September 2001

Allen, S. Physical Therapy Management of Cervical Instability, NAIOMT Newsletter, 1999